Letter from the President

Deor friends,

It's oltogether fitting thot this yeor's yeorbook be bosed upon the theme of seosons. As ony resident of New Englond knows, our cold ond often dreory winters eoch yeor give woy to gentle spring roins, worm summer seo breezes, ond dozzling disploys of outumnol color. At the college, too, there is o noturol possing of the seosons os morathon study sessions, the pressure of finol exoms, ond the juggling of work, fomily ond educotion give woy to the reolizotion of new hopes ond dreoms.

These ore the things thot hoppen every yeor. But os we oll know so well, this wos no ordinory yeor for Bridgewoter. We've been through so much together ond I om ogoin struck by Dickens's line from A Tole of Two Cities – "It wos the best of times. It wos the worst of times." After the yeor we shored, I feel confident in soying that oll of who comprised the college fomily in 2005-06 – students, foculty ond odministrotors olike – hove o much deeper oppreciotion for the power behind those words.

As I soid ot spring commencement, decodes from now historions will surely look bock upon this time ond describe it os o yeor of greot odversity ond chollenge for our institution. They will recoll the woys in which o shocked college community twice hod to deol with the trogic loss of its own people, ond of promising young lives thot come to obrupt ends in the deod of the night. They will remember the tribulotions our fomily felt in seeing its poin ond misfortune dissected ond deboted beneoth the lens of the public eye, ond of the sleepless nights thot preoccupied us os we contemploted whot might be next.

But perhops most importont of oll, they will look for indicotions thot we bowed under the weight of these pressures... thot somehow the fobric of our institution's historic mission begon to unrovel ogoinst the bockdrop of o greot trogedy.

It is here thot they will begin to understond whot oll of us todoy know to be true: The odversity we hove foced os o community mode us stronger, wiser, ond ever more resolved to follow through on the inherent promises of o ploce like Bridgewoter. Stonding heodstrong in the foce of greot chollenge hos been o defining feoture of the Bridgewoter chorocter since the time of our founding, ond using the fruits of our lobors to odvonce some greoter good represents the very essence of whot it meons to heed the Bridgewoter colling.

Mony of you begon your undergroduote coreers just os I wos beginning my time os president. To hove hod the opportunity to wotch you grow, moture, ond push bock the boundories of your own comfort zones hos been the greotest reword of my professionol coreer.

I wish you the best of luck in oll of your future endeovors, ond hope thot eoch new seosons brings with it good heolth ond greot joy.

Sincerely,
Dono Mohler-Forio
President

Student Involvement Fair

2005-2006 Convocation Ceremony

Every year, the college holds a convocation ceremony. Traditionally, this even observes the official start of the final year of undergraduate studies for the senior class. Dr. Phillips, a former professor of elementary and early childhood education who served the college for 37 years, said: "Ladies and gentlemen, you have started your investment in the knowledge-based economy. It's an ongoing process. You know that your education can make a difference in your life, the life of your family and friends, the life of your community, and as we've seen, the world." President Dana Mohler-Faria also addressed the students. He gave words of encouragement and wisdom, which included the following: "When you are empowered, when you are in a position where much is invested in you, that's a significant and serious responsibility...With that comes the realization that your life is not just about you but it is also about the future, and your ability to carry forward into the future solutions to the issues that concern us all."

Professor Joseph V. Stanford

Known for his thorough and effective teaching style, Professor Joseph V. Stanford was instrumental in the development of the Finance program at BSC. Prior to joining the faculty in 1985, he had already achieved successful careers in academia and business. Professor Stanford authored several texts and served as an education consultant to several corporations and institutions.

A dedicated teacher, mentor and advisor to thousands of students, Professor Stanford was equally respected by his colleagues as a man of integrity who stood firmly on his principles. Always projecting a friendly and positive attitude, he had a ready smile and humorous anecdotes to share.

Professor Stanford of the Accounting and Finance Department passed away on February 25, 2006. He will be missed tremendously by students and colleagues.

The Comment

The Comment is the student-run newspaper of Bridgewater State College. Comprised of about fifteen to twenty editors, The Comment publishes eighteen issues per year; each issue is about twenty pages long. The newspaper is made up of four sections: news, opinion, arts and entertainment, and sports. The Comment is always looking for writers and photographers. Articles forcus on the BSC community and events occurring around the world. This past year, The Comment covered, among other things, Jackie Nilsson's tragedy, the stabbing at Our Place Saloon, Greek Week, and Springfest. The Comment helps BSC students remain informed on a variety of interests and issues.

PRSA

The Public Relations Student Association is a student-run organization. Their role at Bridgewater State College is to serve our community. Along with serving BSC, they have also contributed to charities. This past year, they had their annual silent auction. This auction raised $3,394 towards benefiting the SPARK Center. The SPARK Center supports children with AIDS, and were very gracious when receiving the annual donation.

Personal Messages

Congratulations Melissa!
We are very proud of all your achievements. You will succeed in everything you do. Best of luck in Graduate School!
We love you always!
Mom, Dad & Matt, Jr.

Congratulations Alex!
We are so proud of you!
Whichever road your life may take you, we wish you happiness & success!
Love,
Mom, Bobby, Christina & Family

Greg,
You have grown up too fast!!
We love you and are very proud of you!
Love,
Mom, Dad, Rich and Jamie

Laura,
Graduation time, class of 2006 you did it! We are so proud of you. May all your hopes and dreams continue to come true. From your first graduation to your last, we have always loved you.

Love & Kisses
Mom & Dad

Dear Emily,

As your graduation approaches, we wanted you to know how very proud we are of you and your accomplishments. Graduating with a degree in business is no small feat, especially when you have also worked so many hours during college to help support yourself. This comes as no surprise to us . . . you've always been so responsible and so capable beyond our years. Your reaching this milestone has never been in doubt.

Now, with your degree in hand, use your talents and inspirations to make this world a better place. Devote yourself to God, to your family, and to your occupation, in that order. Accept nothing less than excellence from yourself. And always strive to be happy.

With Much Love and Affection,
Your Dad and Debbie

Dear Matt,

Your graduation is a wonderful and proud moment for us. You not only did it, you did it well. Your strength of character has shown through for as long as we can remember. Follow your heart, and we're certain your dreams will come true. We love you.

Mom and Dad

Dear Matt,

As your older brother we've shared many years together. I'm so proud to see you grow up and become the person you are today. You've worked so hard and deserve the best. Congratulations, today is the first day of the rest of your life!

Love,

Harris

Joanna,

We can't believe how the last 4 years have flown by. You have matured from an adolescent into a loving, caring adult. We are so proud of you.
Congratulations.
Love,
Mom, Dad,
Sara, and Brian

Letter from the Editor

To the Class of 2006,

When I first took on the project of being editor of your yearbook, I wondered how I could fit so much history into so few pages. My staff, advisor, and I then decided that it was best that we put together a book that encompassed more photos rather than text for a classier look. We chose the topic of seasons to represent the different changes each of you went through this year. The theme incorporates the different events of the year and how they affected each and every one of you.

It is my wish that as you look through this book, you remember your favorite and most memorable moments of your senior year. Remember the hard work put into those long days at school; recall those unforgettable nights with friends; and never forget those who left an imprint on you forever.

Congratulations on your accomplishments thus far! I wish you all success and good luck in wherever your future leads.
